

Contents

Preface	ix
Arthur Petersen & Juan Pablo Pardo-Guerra
A brief history of International Student/Young Pugwash	xi
Rian Leith
Mission possible: engaging a new generation – ISYP vision statement	xvii
International Student/Young Pugwash
An open letter to my son on the death of Joseph Rotblat	xix
Sandra Ionno Butcher

ISYP Journal on Science and World Affairs, Vol. 1, No. 1, 2005

Editorial

The ISYP Journal on Science and World Affairs	1
Juan Pablo Pardo-Guerra & Arthur Petersen

Articles

Proposal for a regional missile limitation regime: an alternative to missile defence in Northeast Asia	5
Akira Kurosaki
Space weapons: the urgent debate	19
William Marshall, Georges Whitesides, Robert Schingler, Andre Nilsen & Kevin Parkin
Challenges in the creation of a Southern African sub-regional security community	33
Gina van Schalkwyk
Biotechnology and food security in developing countries: the case for strengthening international environmental regimes	45
Magdalena Kropiwnicka
Grassroots science – an ISYP Ideal?	61
Tom Børsen Hansen
Comment
The United Nations after Iraq: tasks for Student/Young Pugwash	73
Joseph Rotblat

Articles

The importance of Nuclear Weapons Free Zones 79
Wakana Mukai

Recent developments in the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons: safeguards by the International Atomic Energy Agency 87
Ryoko Kusumi

Dispositioning military plutonium to promote nuclear non-proliferation 103
Robert Sancton

The Middle East and the 'new terrorism' 113
Kayhan Barzegar

From dissociated hegemony towards embedded hegemony: multilateralism as a by-product of American security concerns 123
Nikhil Dhanrajgir & Bas de Gaay Fortman

Water: cause for conflict or co-operation? 133
Irna van der Molen & Antoinette Hildering

Comment

Indo-Pak 'new peace' 145
Sarahh Bokhari

Brief

The Weapons of Mass Destruction Awareness Programme and Student/Young Pugwash UK involvement 153
Luca Ciciani
